412 $40 Lowcountry Boil

Donated by Jerri and Larry Meisner

9 available.

Lowcountry Boil was allegedly invented by Richard Gay, owner of a seafood company from a small town called Frogmore, who needed to make dinner for 100 of his fellow National Guard soldiers. He originally called it "Frogmore Stew" as an homage to his hometown. Over the years the dish became more popularly known as "Lowcountry Boil" because of the key ingredient, shrimp, which is a principal product of the Lowcountry.

Now you can enjoy a traditional Lowcountry South Carolina dinner, Meisner style! There'll be boiled shrimp, corn, potatoes and sausage, followed by homemade key lime pie. We'll gather on Saturday, April 6th,

Curl up with a blanket and no worries about what's for dinner. Choose from casseroles, to soups, to omelets, meatloaf or even Spam (we have been hearing rumors about this newly-discovered delicacy!) What's your "happy meal"? Be the winning bidder and discuss your heart's desire with the Care Core Team. Delivery date will be arranged.

612 $40 Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) Half-Share

Donated by UUFR

UUFR participates in a Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) program featuring local area farmers of color. The winning bidder will receive a one half share in season one, donated by the Fellowship. This half share provides eight weeks of freshly-picked produce, typically enough for a family of two, every week during spring dates TBD in season one. Produce can be picked up at UUFR on Saturday mornings.

613 $25 Special Occasion Dessert of Your Choice

Donated by Linda Alexander

Linda Alexander will create a desert of your choice for your special occasion! Perhaps a six-layer chocolate cake with cream filling and sour cream chocolate frosting? Maybe a coconut flan with caramelized pineapple rings, or a rum custard trifle with fresh fruit and piles of whipped cream? Or just a large assortment of brownies and/or cookies? The winner bidder will decide, and delivery will be arranged.

501 $15 Build A Bee Condo

Donated by Bill Devereux
6 available.

This is for families: one bid for parents/grandparents and kids. Pollinators are crucial to the health of the planet, helping everything from the food we eat to the cycle of life. You can welcome pollinators such as bees into your yard by making a native bee home. Cut a block of wood, drill holes using a drill press, and glue on the roof. Even a child can do this, but adults are welcome too. Eye and ear protectors and tools are supplied. It will take less than an hour to make and a lifetime of enjoyment. Bees nest in April, so we'll build our condo on Saturday, March 16th, 2024 at either 10 or 11am.
